state fund Soverand.

And dan't Soverand.

And dan't Soverand.

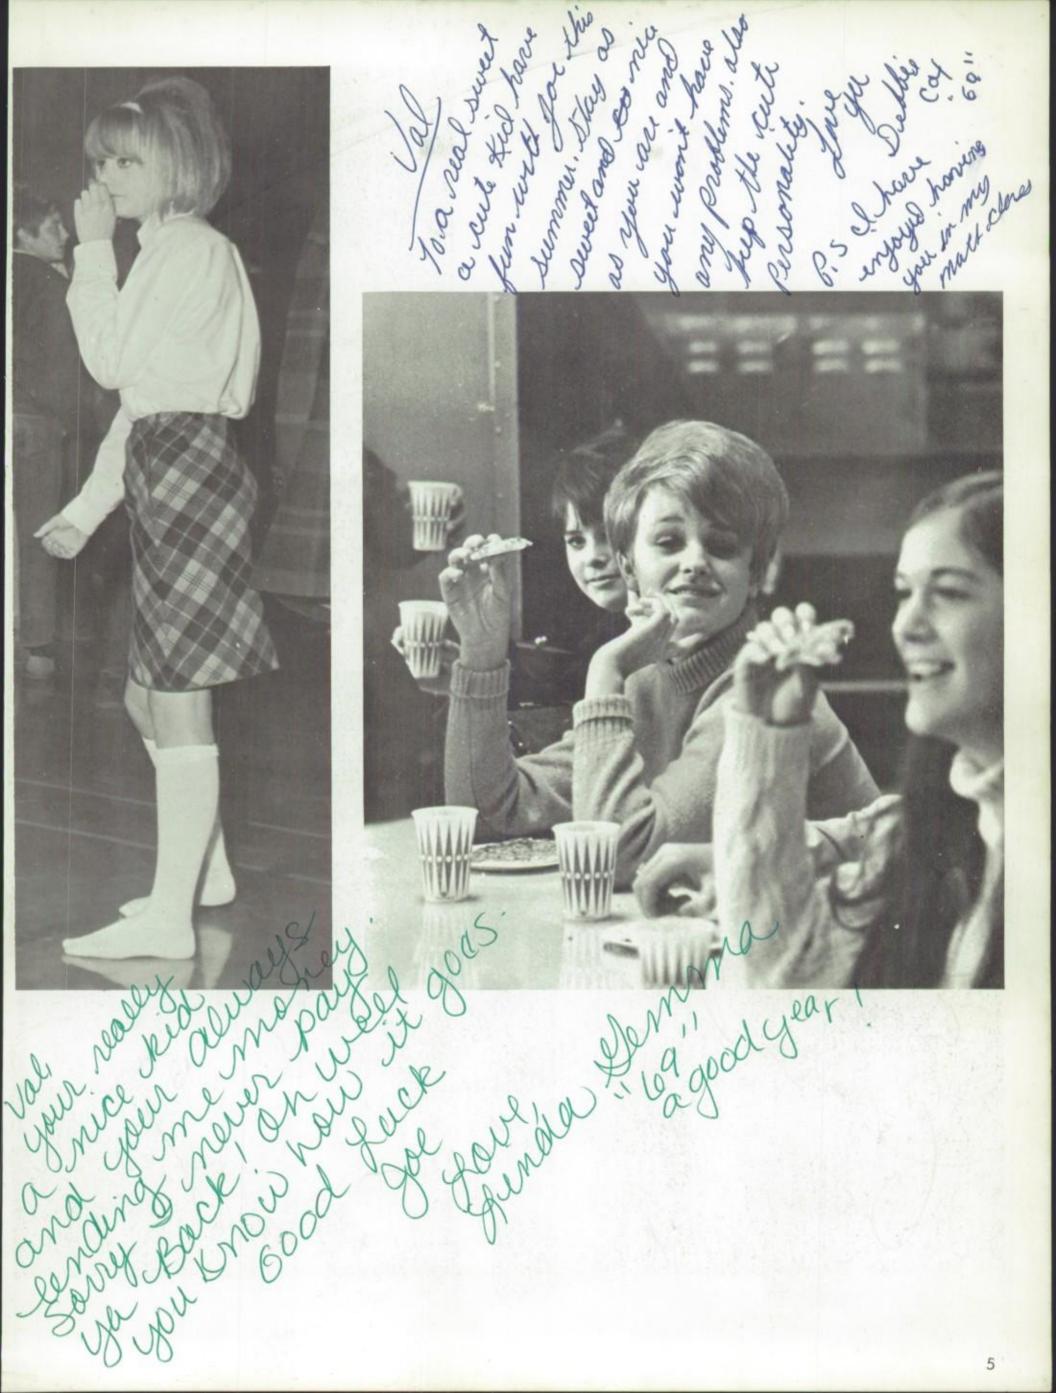

We laugh with seemingly carefree gaiety. We take disappointments with a frown that soon disappears in the course of our busy day.

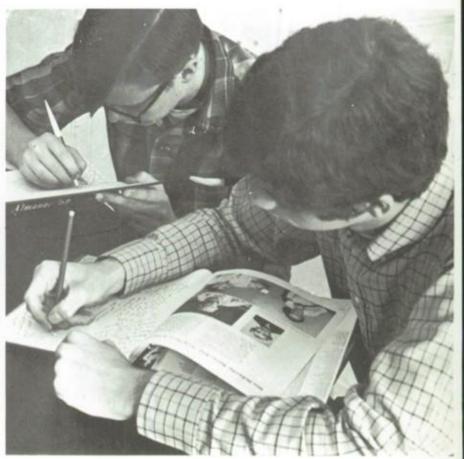

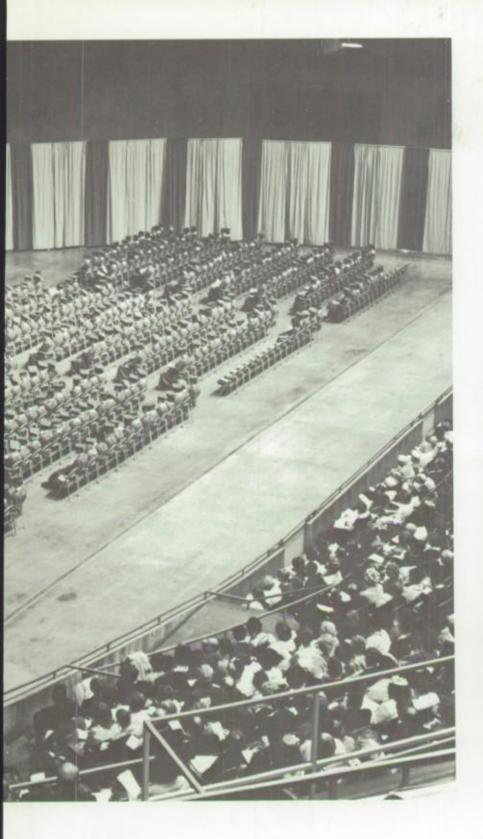

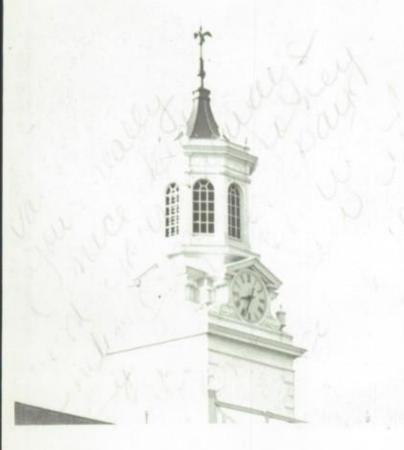

Who are we? We are Youth—the Youth that makes Franklin High School great—Youth that has come through its period of complacency—Youth that searches for meaning in life.

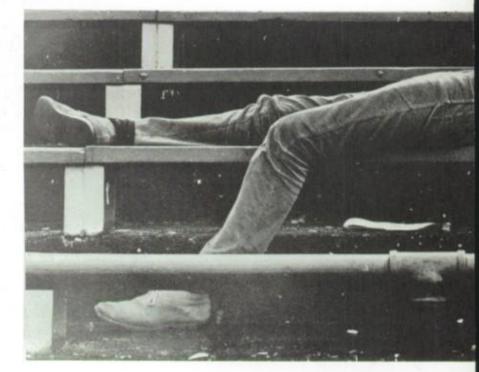

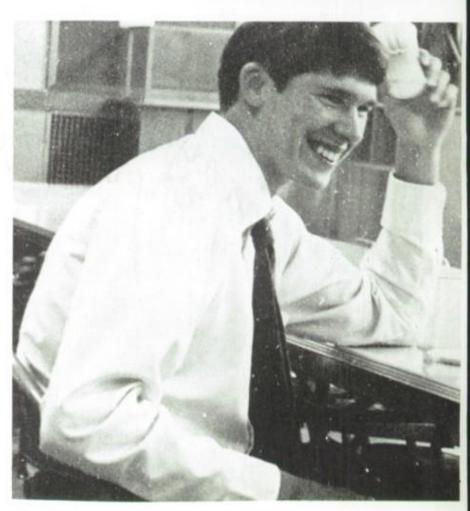

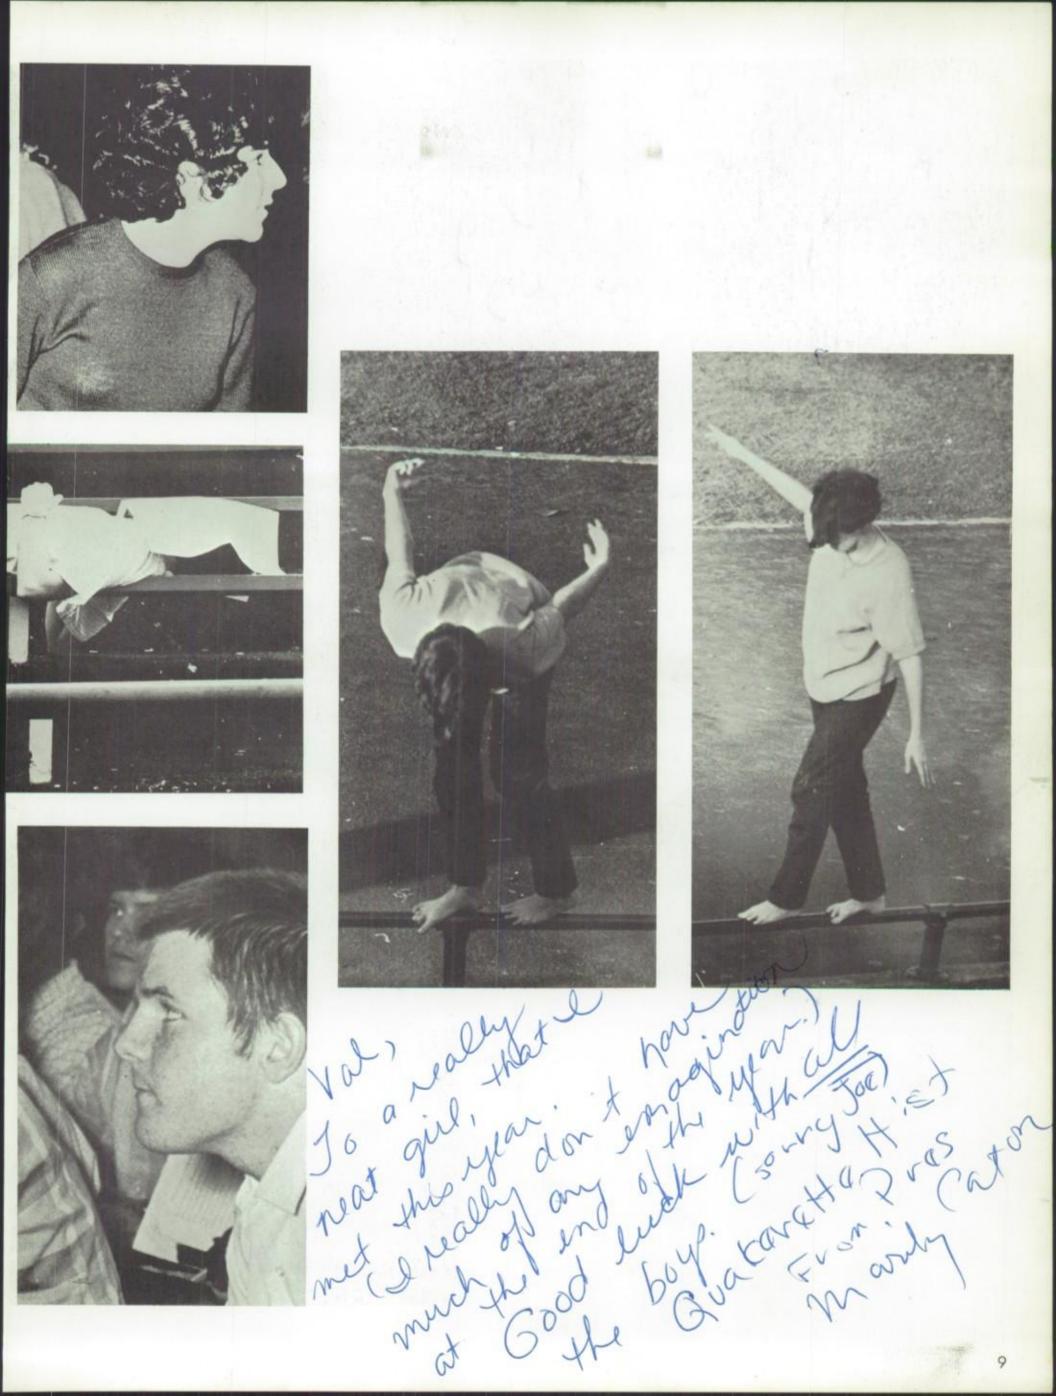

We appear carefree, confident, and content—indeed we should be. The world lies before us and success is at our feet. We have everything to choose from and the strength of youth to make good our choices.

But we are not completely happy. We are only sometimes confident, and seldom content. Bewildered, we see that wonderful world before us, yet do not know how to claim it.

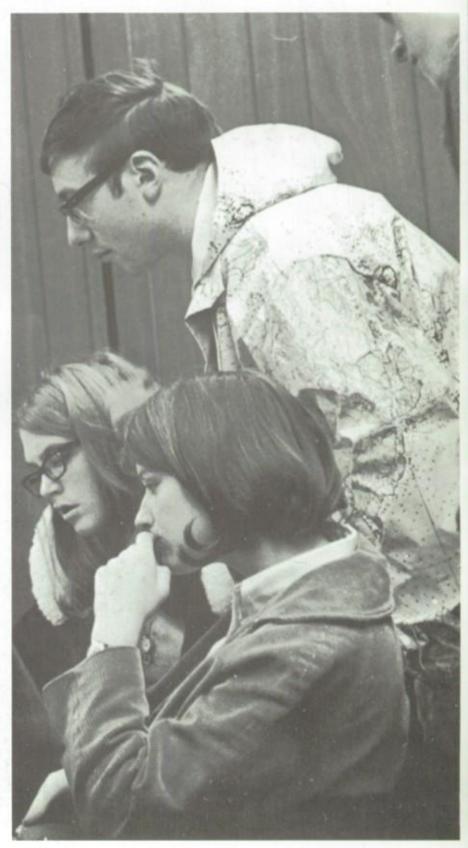

As children we asked questions, and they were answered in simple and indisputable terms. That was the way we were taught. There was nothing to worry about. We asked and received. We were reassured.

Now, we are no longer children. We are YOUTH. We inquire, but the responses are no longer simple. The replies that we get are riddled with flaws and loopholes.

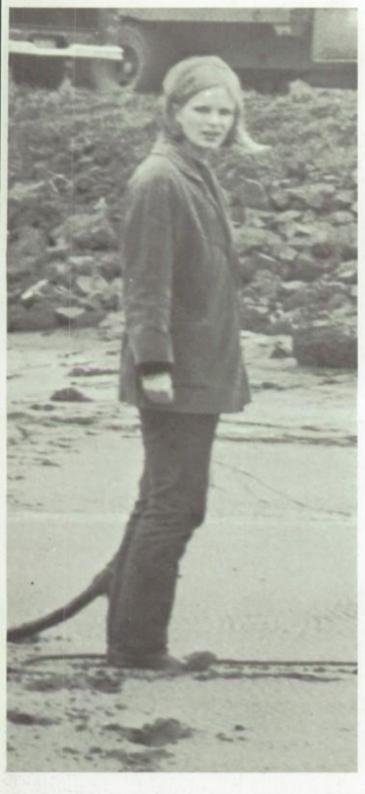

In fact, we discover that answers bring doubts, and that the teachers just can not remove them. Each of us has a slightly different answer to every question. In that difference, we discover, is the essence of life. Val,

Jo one of the nicest gicks

L. know. Good luck in everythin and with for or Bill or who ever!

Sill or who ever!

Juck' w Happiness, Judy Special

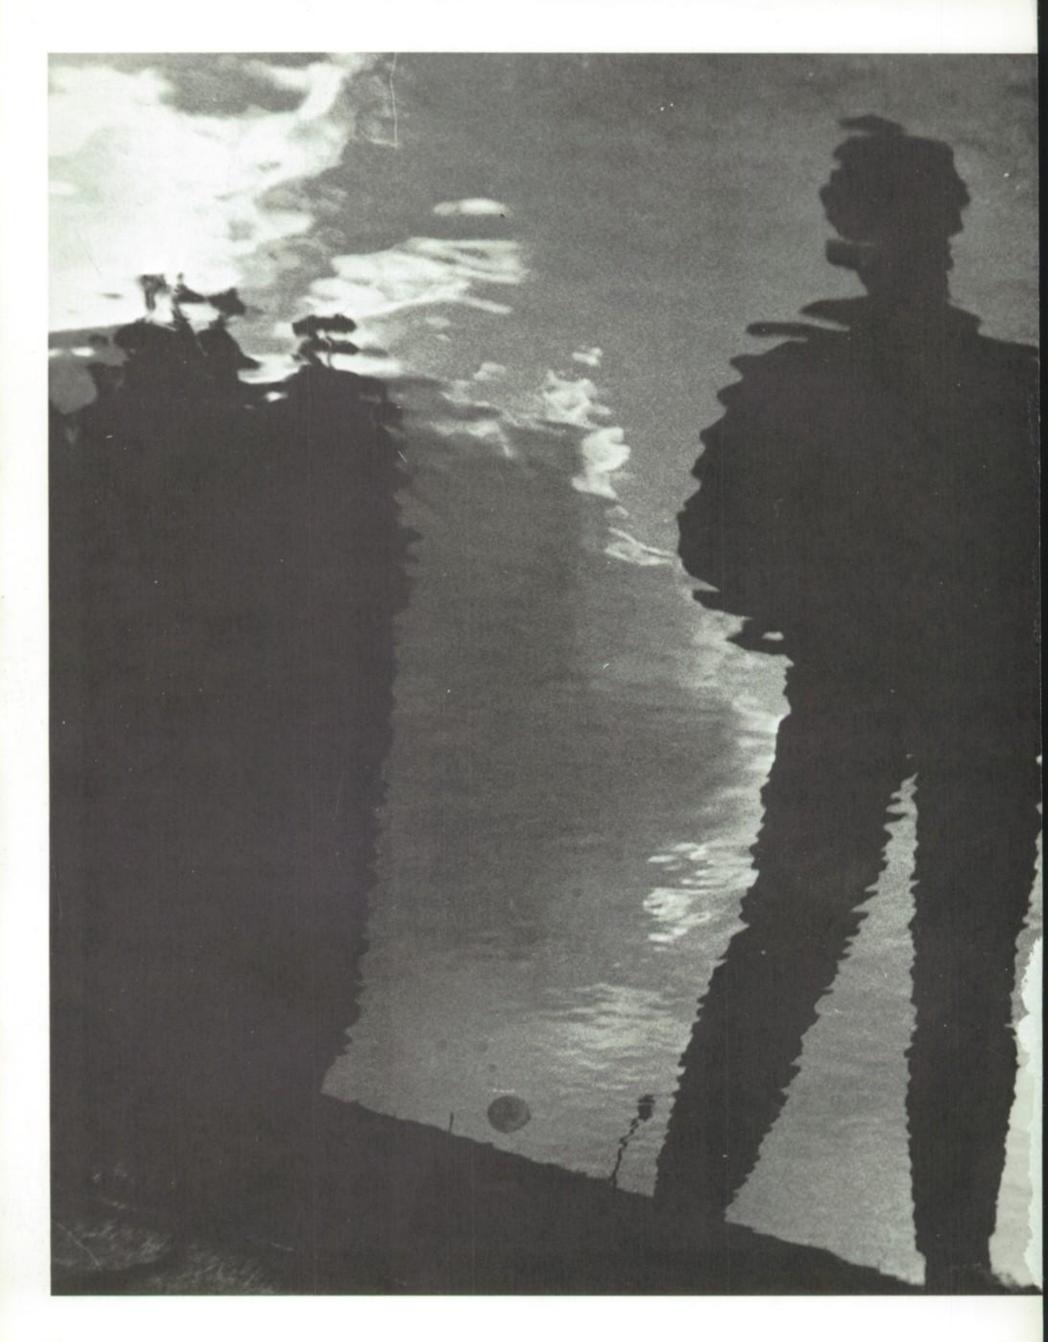

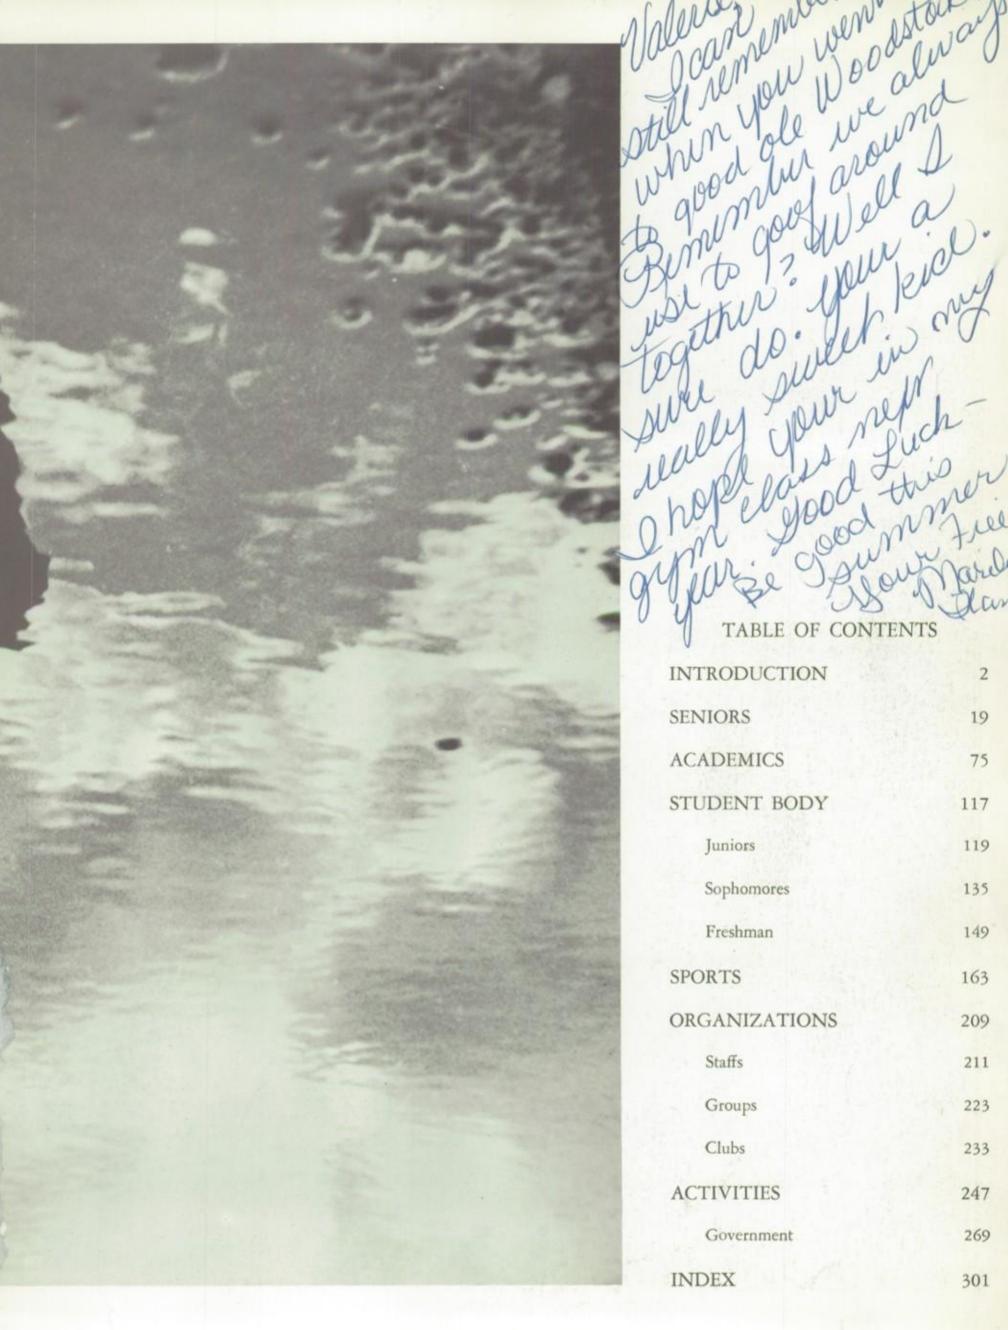

And, through that difference, we observe that we are changing. Where before we strove to be like our classmates, now we no longer care to conform to others' molds. We have searched and we have found what we were looking for. We still do not have all the answers. We never will—but we do understand better our individual souls and, to us, that is the meaning of life.

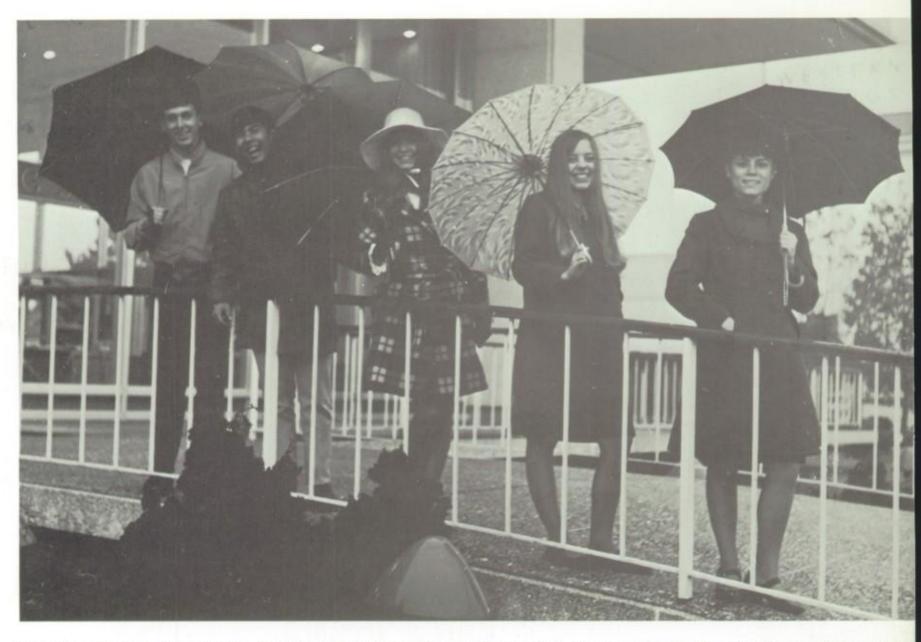

SENIORS year of "12" Mark Kint

Seniors, Early Plans Pay Off

This year's fall senior class cabinet began to prepare for graduation activities early. Plans for the Senior Prom were started during vacation by chairman, Barbara Ehrig, and cochairman, Peggy Seigle. Pat Nemgar, Senior Movie chairman, and Allen Grant, co-chairman, began shooting highlights of the seniors' last year at Franklin.

The senior cabinet served as guides for freshmen on Orientation Day and were also in charge of the freshman class' first election.

In September, work started on Senior Week. Throughout the week, September 30 to October 4, class cards were validated and class spirit tags were sold. The week ended with a senior sponsored after-game dance.

Sgt. at Arms; Martha Wunderlich, Jenifer Clark, Debbie Libke, Marcy Jenkins, Carol Caniparoli.

Spring Cabinet Jumps Into Action

The Spring senior class cabinet with president Darrell Coe led the class through the remaining term. They carried out plans for activities at the end of the year: baccalaureate, senior prom and commencement.

Planning for the annual Senior-Faculty game occupied a large percentage of the cabinet's time.

Senior Mosts were announced at a special class meeting in March. The Art Staff, cooperating with the senior section of the Almanac Staff, created heroic-sized props to symbolize the eleven categories.

New ideas, such as Bunny-Grams, an Easter egg hunt, and an egg-eating contest were proposed for the spring season.

Senior Officers: Darrell Coe, President; Terrie Smith, Treasurer; Judy Fazzolari, Publicity Chairman; Rick Langdon, Vice President; Elizabeth Jelineo, Secretary.

Sgt. at Arms: Steve High, Donna Lohmeyer Cheiko Takagi, Lynn Dixon.

ACADEMICS

This year Franklin High School welcomed its seventh principal since the foundation in 1914.

Mr. Walter E. Erickson earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Willamette University and his Master of Arts degree at the University of Washington. Positions he held prior to coming to Franklin include: Principal at Madison High School for six years; Vice-Principal at Madison High School for five years; Activities Director at Wilson High School (when it opened); Vice-Principal at Cleveland High School; Principal of the Junior High in Camas, Washington; teacher and coach at Camas High School for five years; and Willamette University, Dean of Boys and Director of Admissions. To the job of Principal, Mr. Erickson brings a warm smile and good humor, as well as administrative skill.

As I write these comments in early January, 1969, I reflect back on my interesting experiences working with students, staff members, and parents. Less than one-half of a school year is not a very long time, but it is sufficient to find that Franklin High School is a great institution, with fine traditions of scholarship, and a comprehensive student activity program.

It is my fervent hope that during the school year all Franklin Quakers will have participated in the work and play on the campus, and that some of the action is reflected in the ALMANAC, the record of student life in its brightest, busiest, and most vivid moments. As you relive the school year from September through June by reading this publication, may you find it full of pleasant memories.

New Girls' V. P. Finds Challenge

Mr. Donald Holt, Mr. Jack King, and Mrs. Verna Miller assisted Principal Walter Erickson in his administrative duties this year. New and challenging problems arose and were dealt with by these three capable vice-principals.

New to Franklin this year, Mrs. Verna Miller filled the administrative position left vacant last year. Mrs. Miller commented that she found many challenges here at Franklin due to the fact that she is dealing with teenage

Adults Work In Key Positions

Secretaries, custodians, the cafeteria supervisor, the library staff, and the teachers' aides make up Franklin's staff of adult assistants. Their duties are as follows: the custodial staff keeps the building clean and in good repair; secretaries take care of student records; the teachers aides help with typing, duplicating and mounting; the librarians take care of the library; and cafeteria workers are responsible for the school lunches.

Counselors Assist, Aid 2382 Students

In order to give all help possible to the individual student, the Franklin Counseling Department added three . new members this year.

In principle, each team of counselors starts with the freshmen class and stays with the group until graduation. Students are urged to know themselves today and to give some thought as to the direction they may take tomorrow. Course discussion, academic and vocational information by individual or groups, and conferences are a part of every day service available to each Franklinite. Junior and senior students obtain extra help from Mr. Manning in post-high school planning.

James Manning Dispenses College, Vocational Job Material To Eager Students

Mr. James Manning, a nationally noted college and vocational counselor, helps Franklin students with post-high school planning.

As a college counselor, he performs many services. One of the most important consists of organizing certain tests that are helpful for college entrance and keeping students informed of other compulsory tests. For those promising students who may need assistance, he keeps financial aid folders. Those who need finances may apply for scholarships through Mr. Manning. He also aids students in their choice of colleges by making information about each institution available.

In the way of career guidance, Mr. Manning uses his knowledge of the business world to help students that are not going to college. After looking over the records and talking to the student, he is usually able to find him a job along his lines of interest or send him to a business where he may apply. He can also recommend various technical and business schools.

Vocational Training Offered At Monroe

Monroe High School offers a variety of vocational courses for students interested in business careers.

Classes open to seniors are, business machines, which includes IBM card punch training, business shorthand, medical assistants, dental assistants, and nursery school.

An important part of the program, on the job training, is offered in March. Then the medical and dental assistants go to the University of Oregon Medical School and the business shorthand students enter businesses or law firms.

Also during March, the business machine students take three civil service tests, federal, state, and local. A passing grade means consideration for government employment.

P. T. A. And Dads'

Club Benefit School

The P.T.A. (Parent Teacher's Association) and the Dad's Club work together for the betterment of the Franklin community.

Both organizations promote understanding among parents, teachers, and students, thereby helping the students to make the most of their school years. An important service of the P.T.A. is the eye examination which it conducts in the P.E. classes each year.

The Dad's Club assists the administration by patrolling football and basketball games and raises money by selling programs.

Both organizations work to provide scholarships to enable deserving students to enter college.

Ray Parrish, President confers with Arnie Jensen, Treasurer about Dads' Club Account.

Mrs. Lucille Dole, President, and Mrs. Betsy Austen, First Vice President, preside over first P.T.A. meeting at which new teachers were introduced.

New Systems Studied By C Council

The Curriculum Council was founded for the purpose of developing improvements for Franklin's academic system. Comprised of representatives from each department and parents from the community, the council submits recommendations for the betterment of the school.

A study was made this year of the pass-fail system. Mr. Laughlin collected opinions of the system from teachers and students who had used it and presented them to the council. The plan passed, and now a student can take an elective subject on a passfail basis provided that he has the teacher's consent. Council members felt that the subject taken on this basis should be a sixth subject.

Other ideas discussed included the module system, double period classes, a student curriculum council, and new courses offerings. All new subjects submitted for approval were passed.

Seated: Mr. Jack King, Curriculum Vice Principal; Mrs. Gwen Green; Mrs. DoraLee Nonne; Mr. John Brewer, chairman; Miss Anne Bohlen; Miss LaRhette Swann; Mr. Richard Laughlin. Standing: Mr. Yoshinobu Terada; Mrs. Bonnae Lindley; Mrs. Janet Faurot; Miss Corrine Senn; Mrs. Eleanor Norlin; Mrs. Gladys Eggiman; Mrs. Josephine Ehm, Secretary; Mr. Melville Sands; Mr. Ruben Maier.

Art Draws Students

Through the Art Department, students are given the opportunity to use their creativity in many ways.

Courses range from a general study of color and experience in different art media to specialized studies such as weaving, printing, ceramics, and interior design.

Commercial art, open to those who have completed the general art class, emphasizes advertising layouts and lettering with further experience in color, design, and production processes.

Members of the Art Staff produce posters, banners, sign, and program covers for school use.

Juniors and seniors interested in college and without previous art experience are eligible for Art Understanding, a semester course which entails a study of art from all ages and cultures.

Art exhibits in the offices, and examples of all crafts displayed throughout the year for all to enjoy, have made Franklin students and faculty aware of this department.

Business Department Prepares Students For Employment

Business courses help the student with skills that he can use during his stay in high school, and they prepare him for work after graduation.

Typing, available in one-half to four year courses, is the most popular because it enables the student to type his book reviews, homework and manuscripts. Other classes, such as shorthand and briefhand, help the student with taking notes.

For the student interested in taking care of his own business affairs and understanding those of others, there are courses of record keeping and general business.

Those interested in becoming part of the business world will enroll in office practice, which gives experience in the use of machines.

Advanced students gain work experience in the offices within the school and by holding jobs in the business community.

Combined Classes Help Freshmen To Adjust

The Combined English and Social Studies classes of the freshman year were formed to bridge the gap between the elementary and high schools.

During the English study, the emphasis is placed on sentence structure. Understanding of the novel, Shakespeare, poetry, and Greek mythology is stressed in literature.

A study of ancient history comprises the social studies program. Interest centers on the Crusades and the major religions and cultures of both the ancient and modern

English Stresses Practical Wisdom Of Philosophy

Philosophy, a new course that has not been tried here before, was offered by the English department on an experimental basis. The course covered the philosophies of segregated cultures.

Self-expression and understanding others are the most important aims of the English department. This is accomplished by creating situations, real and imaginary, which place emphasis on oral and written skills.

The program for all four years encompasses study of selected essays, short stories, poetry, novels, plays, and the development of the English language.

A course called Shakespearean English is offered for seniors who wish a more detailed study of Shakespeare's works than is generally acquired in the senior English class.

Special emphasis on writing is offered in creative writing classes. Faster reading with greater comprehension is the aim of effective reading classes, open to all on a semester basis.

Speech Students Earn Trophies, Gain Experience, Honor Franklin

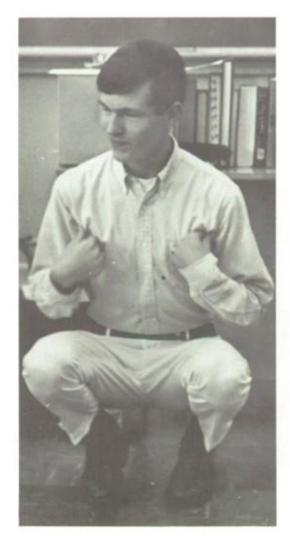

Speech and drama are elective English courses. The beginning forensics class covers the fundamentals of preparing and delivering speeches. In order to gain more confidence in delivery, this year the first year students went to English and Social Studies classes with symposiums. Students in advanced speech courses were required to attend the outside speech meets, some of which took them as far as Dallas, Oregon.

With a new coach this year, the drama department had two aims. One was bringing the community closer to Franklin. Department members strived toward this end by putting on children's plays each Saturday afternoon. The plots came from fairy tales, and the players provided their own dialogue. Exposure to a wide range of drama, the second goal of the department, was secured in the presentation of one-act plays for the student body.

Research Work Made Easier By Library Facilities

Mrs. Norlin, Head Librarian, has a few questions to ask regarding the area of the library, which she considers inadequate: "How do you hang shelves from light fixtures?" "Where are we going to put this year's books?" "How can you fit three classes in the library at one time?"

The library contains 1000 pamphlets and about 22,000 books. Its main purpose is to provide resources to the student for research work. The facilities include the pamphlet file, reference books, and the Reader's Guide to Periodic Literature, used for locating magazine articles on specific topics.

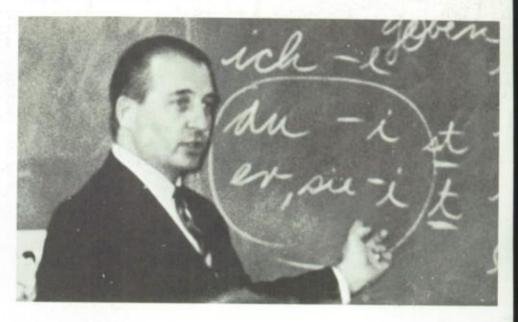

Other purposes of the library are to give the student information on any interests he has, to supply him with books for recreation.

Accent Placed on Foreign Languages

The Foreign Language Department at Franklin offers students an opportunity to study the language and culture of three modern nations: France, Spain, and Germany. The languages are taught in four-year-sequence, beginning with emphasis on comprehension of the spoken language, and a basic understanding of the history, art, and people of the nation. Films, records, and a language lab supplement the textbook instruction. In the advanced classes, concentration is put on reading and writing. Short stories, newspapers, plays, poems, and magazines are used to develop these skills.

With the retirement of Miss Cecil McKercher last year, Latin and Russian were cancelled, but may be back in the curriculum next year if there is sufficient interest among students.

Cooking, sewing and first aid are among the basics of homemaking which girls study in Home Economics courses.

The Child Development Program is a step toward better understanding of young people. The girls operate the Franklin Play School and study the different types of children's programs used throughout the city.

Clothing classes range from a course for girls with no background in clothing construction to advanced tailoring. This deals mainly with sewing for children.

Cooking, an important duty for every girl, is covered in general courses all four years. A gourmet foods class, which involves experimenting with recipes from all over the world, is available.

Designed to give background and training in modern job skills, the Industrial Arts Department provides an exploratory experience in careers. Courses in electronics, drafting, woodshop, and metalshop, are designed to prepare the student for today's technical world.

Many of these courses provide the training necessary for beginning an apprenticeship upon graduation, while others are preparation for college.

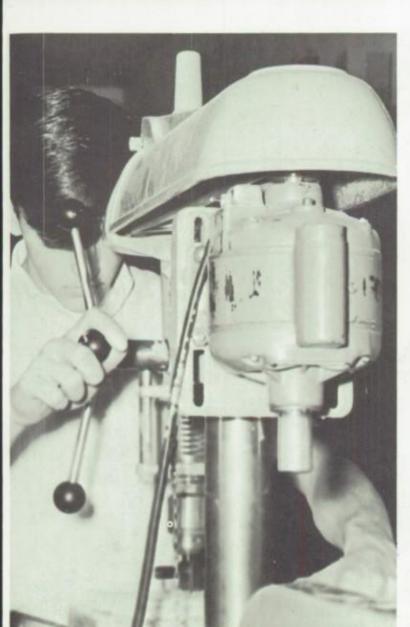

Each spring many Industrial Arts students contribute items of interest to the Franklin Fine Arts Festival. These include tables, lamps, stereos, and gokarts. The exhibits are judged for quality and workmanship by qualified men in each field.

Computer Enhances Mathematics Curriculum

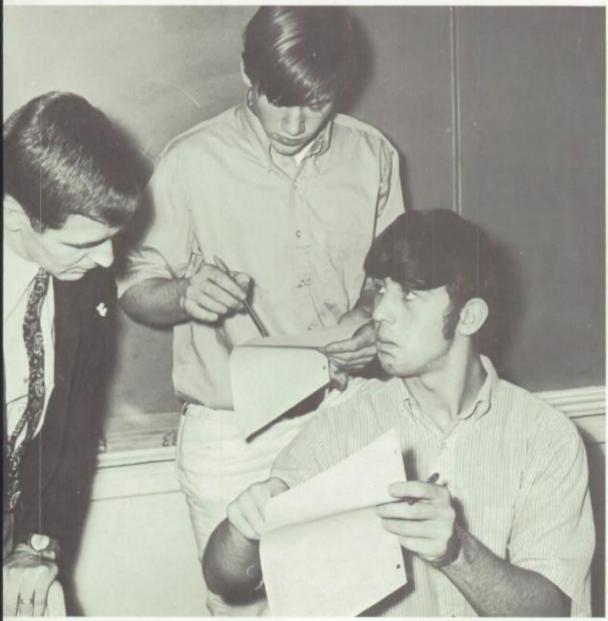

The Mathematics Department offers a variety of courses ranging from general math and elementary algebra to trigonometry and senior math. After each student completes the required one year of mathematics, he may choose to increase his knowledge in this field by taking more advanced courses. Through daily discussions, tests, and homework, students absorb the principles of abstract proof and learn to apply principles of logic to specific problems. Through these techniques, they can better understand difficult problems which become applicable in today's highly technological world.

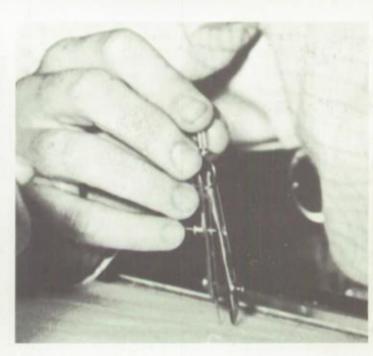

This year the department had the use of an electronic computer. Instruction in its operation highlighted the year's study.

Music Enriches Student Life

The music department of Franklin High School has much to offer students. Interesting and challenging classes in both instrumental and vocal music are available. The band, orchestra, "A" Choir, Girl's Choir, and the small ensembles continually distinguish themselves in the community. This year, for example, "A" Choir and the orchestra presented the musical, Annie Get Your Gun. Every Christmas the choirs and orchestra put on a musical program, while the band performs at football and basketball games and marches in the Fairy Tale and Rose Festival parades. In the spring both the band and the orchestra compete in a city-wide contest. In addition, the Fine Arts Festival is annually presented by the entire department, with every musical group performing.

Quakers Shape Up

Benjamin Franklin said, "Games lubricate the body and the mind." In order to achieve this, Franklin High School carries out the state physical education program which makes two years of P.E. required and gives those who wish it the opportunity to advance in this

During the fall of the freshman year the boys improve their skills in football and speedball, while the girls play field hockey. Activities such as volleyball, tumbling, basketball, and track are covered in the course of the year, and a quarter is spent of the basics of dancing.

In one semester the sophomore student learns the skills of tennis and reviews the activities of his freshman year. During the second semester driver education, sex education, the dangers of smoking and alcoholism and the use and abuse of drugs are discussed in the classroom.

Advanced P.E., emphasizes lifetime sports such as archery and golf, and gives the students a chance to develop calls for their own square dances.

Science Explores New Worlds

The Science Department aims to educate students to live in the complicated world society of today.

Biology deals with the problems of the living world with its population, food, and space needs and difficulties. The chemistry and physics courses help make the physical world more meaningful in the "space age."

Actually, no field of science can be separated from the others; therefore, we do have some classes of integrated science, a combination of biology, chemistry, and physics.

Special interests are met by offering courses in seminar, where students work on their problems and in human physiology and second-year biology.

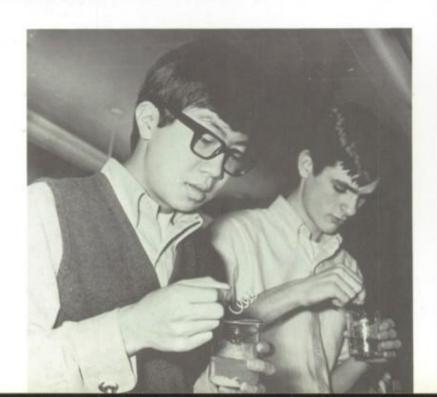

Horticulture was offered to junior and senior boys again this year. This class is a valuable experience for those interested in nursery or florists work.

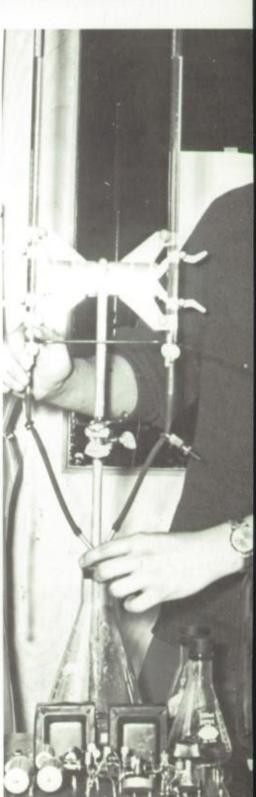

The photography course consists of instruction in the basic techniques of picture taking, camera operation and the developing and printing of film.

Mr. Mike Miller Science Horticulture

Study Of The Past Helps Students To Understand The Present

Knowledge of the past, present, and future—what has happened, what is happening, and what will happen—is gained by the social studies program.

Through social studies the student becomes well versed on the world around him. He learns to interpret the present, and some aspects of the future, in light of the past.

During the required three years of social studies, freshmen study the ancient world; juniors peruse American history—from Colonial to present time; seniors deal with political sciences, sociology, economics, and international relations.

Electives include half year courses in geography, European history and vocations. For students who have a yen to taste teachers' duties, there is a year course of student assistance.

The student body officers, class presidents learn more about government through the leadership class.

Fall Officers Prepare For An Active Year

"It was hard work, but I'd do it over again if I had the chance. You have to be willing to give up most of your free time and put forth all your effort. You also have to be able to take criticism." This is what Debbie Mealey had to say about her term as Junior Class president.

Debbie and her cabinet wanted the Dr. Erickson trophy to go to the juniors and kept this in mind during the planning of all activities.

The term began with Junior Week. Activities included a color day, tag sale, and dance.

During the remainder of the term, two class meetings were held, class jewelry was sold, and the plans for the prom were finished.

Spring Cabinet Winds Up The Year Successfully

Junior Class president, Sharon Gallucci, said about her spring term, "It's lots of work, but you want to do it, so it doesn't seem like work. I just wish we'd had more participation. It's such a big class, 600 people, and it is hard to get everybody interested."

During the spring term, the cabinet continued the class jewelry sales and various money making projects. Two of these projects, the validation of class cards and the sale of spirit tags, took place the week before the Junior Prom.

The big event of the spring term was the Prom with the theme of "April in Paris." Much hard work went into the planning and execution of this activity.

Sophomore Class Puts Money-Making First On Agenda

"I didn't think there would be so many worries, but I did have a good cabinet and lots of fun," said Wayne Michigami.

The fall term sophomore class officers began work with car washes during the summer. Other money making projects took place during the school term and included game tag and class card sales.

Most of the activities of the class were cancelled or postponed because of conflicts of schedules or weather conditions.

Spring term sophomore class president, Nancy McElhaney, felt that the class needed more interest from members outside the cabinet. She also said that she was impressed by some sophomores who asked if they could come to the cabinet meetings.

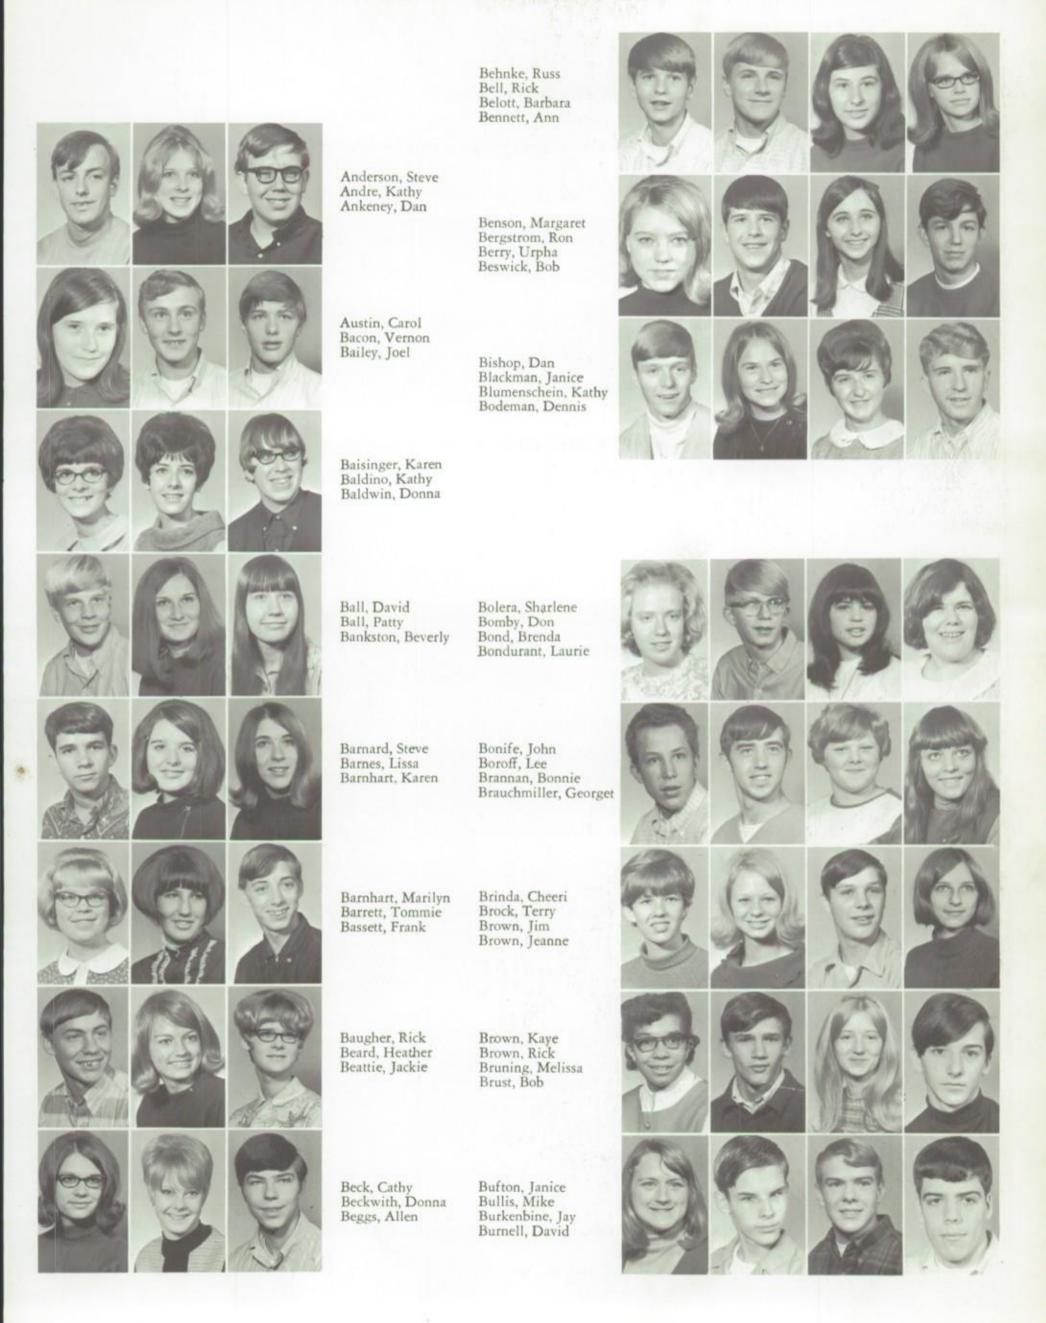

The term consisted mainly of money making activities such as a bake sale, car wash, candy sale, and after school sales. Since both the sophomore and freshman-sponsored dances during the fall term were cancelled out, the two cabinets sponsored a dance together in the spring.

Freshmen Find Facts And Friendship At Franklin

"It was harder than I thought it would be, because no one takes an interest. The cabinet worked hard, but it doesn't matter how much you put into something if other people do not become involved. That goes for the whole school, not just the freshman class." These are the words used by Cindy Stucki to express her feelings about her term as freshman class president.

The first activity undertaken by the freshmen was "Frosh Week." During this week the class had a sucker sale, class card contest, and an assembly. The dance for that week was cancelled out because of snow, and changed to a combined dance of freshmen and sophomores sponsored by both classes.

Quakers Take Red Division

Coach Jack Knudsen, new to Franklin, drove the Varsity football team to the Red Division Championship. The record of the regular season play was five wins and no losses, while the total record stood at six wins and two losses.

Although each member was important to the team, Mike Casciato, Gary Keller, Don Loomis, and Paul Pavlich were labeled as outstanding. Of the 40 players on the team, ten were nominated for All City Honors and six of these made the first All City team.

The defensive players chosen were Don Loomis, Dave Austen, Gary Keller, and Randy Miller. Bill Piland was selected on offense. Mike Casciato was honored by selection on both the offensive and defensive teams.

JV's Battle Injuries

Coach Fred Willis helped the J.V. team through what he termed a "rough season" this year. After twelve weeks of intensive training, bad breaks, and tough competition, the record stood at five wins and two losses. Injuries were named as the key to the bad record.

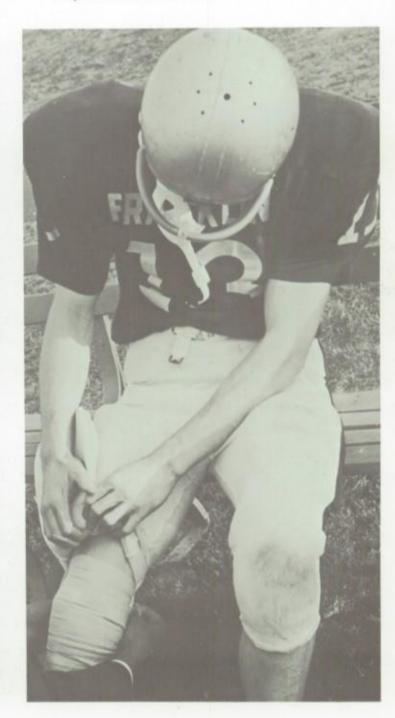

Of all the members of the team, Dan Hall, Mike Santangelo, Greg Parrish, Allen Webber, and Darwin Rasmussen were recognized by the coaches for their outstanding spirit and ability.

Gridders Attempt Victories

The freshman football team, coached by Mr. Jack Burri, ended the season with a record of one win, one tie, and four losses. Coach Burri was disappointed in wins and losses, but was "happy with the season as a whole."

There were some outstanding players, but team effort was the key to the season.

Underclassmen Struggle to Place

The Junior J.V. cross country team fell short of first place to end with second in the city meet.

Franklin's sophomore team took fifth place after a season of hard practice and tough competition.

The freshmen team worked stubbornly, but still ended with eighth place, and experience which coach Abraham believes will greatly strengthen next year's team.

Quakers Run Short of State

This year Franklin's Varsity cross country team went into competition with desire, determination, and a new coach, Mr. Jon Abraham. After a slow start, the team went on to finish fifth in the city meet. The top four teams in this meet went on to state. They ended the season with a record of seven wins and four losses.

According to Coach Abraham, the team had four of the top men in the city in Rick Langdon, Stan Kadolf, Mike Barton, and Jon Ruddell. Several runners battled for the fifth spot on the team, the top two of these being junior Don Smurthwaite, and sophomore Jeff Zilk. Lack of a strong fifth man was the major handicap.

Tankers Go To State Meet

"The season was good," stated Mr. Bob Ford, swim coach. Dale Barnhart, senior, took 5th place in the 200 yard freestyle, and 2nd place in the 100 yard backstroke in the city tournament.

Freshman Lynn Reverman took 2nd place in the 100 yard backstroke and 3rd place in the 100 yard breaststroke in the tournament. Chris Reverman, sophomore, was captain of the team. Mr. Ford hopes to have more girls participating next year.

Quaker Muskets Shoot It Up

Coach Britt Davis stated that this was a "building year" for the rifle team. A great deal of the team's potential was lost last year when most of the strong marksmen graduated.

Individual marksmanship plays a key role in the efforts of the rifle team. Mr. Davis lists captain Judy Jones as the most outstanding member of the team, and one of the top three girl contenders among shooters in Oregon. Other Quaker Muskets improved 15% at each practice.

"Riflery is an exacting sport. It takes a well disciplined kid with a lot of control to participate in this game. And I couldn't ask for a better group of kids." Mr. Davis commented.

Enthusiastic Rally Cheers Team On

Judy Fazzolari, fall varsity rally president, stated that she felt that attendance is the key to a good sports season and that participation was pretty good this year. Another rally member encouraged future football spectators to come prepared for any kind of weather—"Whenever it rained, the majority of the girls left."

The rally also found spirit running high during the wrestling season. President Lyn Tesdal said, "Whereas basketball is really the more popular sport, we've had great attendance at the matches." Lyn also expressed the desire for even more spirit next year.

Quakers Twice Victorious PIL Champions

"The season was fabulous, and so was the team. We proved that!" stated Mr. Jack Burri, Varsity wrestling coach (see photo at right). For the second consecutive year Franklin's Varsity Wrestling team took the P.I.L. city championship with all wins and no losses, excepting the David Douglas invitational. Matmen Dave Ellis, Jeff Moffitt, Jon Ruddell, Gary Hathaway, Randy Kleeman, and Cleve Parker placed in the city tournament finals. Jon Ruddell, Dave Ellis and Gary Hathaway represented Franklin in the State Tournament at Corvallis. Mr. Burri added, "A coach couldn't be prouder of any team."

JV's Motivated by Second Varsity Positions

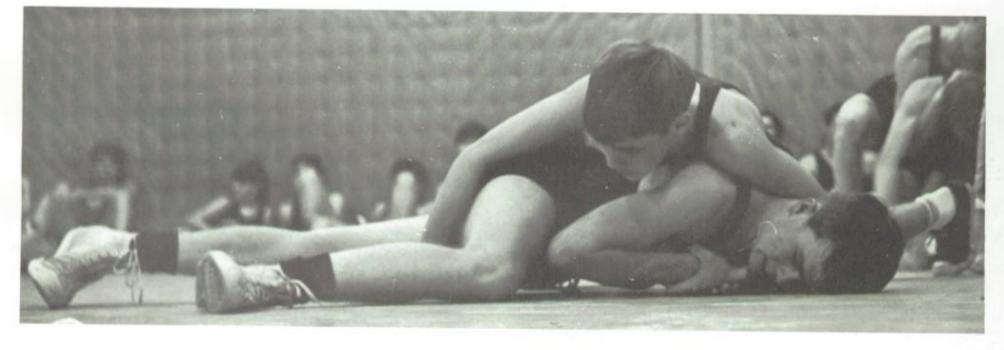

Though there weren't many matches, Coach Ronald Calhoun felt it was a successful season—''I feel that we have a tremendous bunch of young men that will be fully capable of fitting into varsity positions next year.''

The JV team worked for novice tournaments and a chance to take a position on the second varsity team. This year the team attended two tournaments, and four sophomores gained positions on the second varsity team.

Coach Calhoun remarked that Franklin had the largest team of JV wrestlers in the city. Of these, the outstanding ones were Dan Hall, Pat Wood, George Niiranen, Stwart Yabuki, Bob Lynn, Jerry Ikeda, and Greg Keller.

(First row): B. Putnam, B. Patraw, J. Buchanan, G. Hunnel, D. Ellis, B. Gillis, R. Patraw, T. Ramsey, S. Boileau, B. Maine, G. Hill, D. Case. (Second row): D. Baldwin, D. Cooper, M. Wrakestraw, S. #### Frosh Test Skills

"It was an overall good season. I hope that the turnout is as good next year as it was this year." These were Coach Dyar's comments on the freshmen wrestling season.

Events of the season included the Grant and Benson invitational, the AAU Junior Olympic Match and eight dual matches. The record of the dual matches was three wins, one tie, and five losses.

The outstanding matmen were Guy Hill and Rod Patraw.

Varsity Clinches Playoff Berth

"Anytime you have a winning season, you have a good season, so I think we had a good season." This is what Coach Winters had to say about the varsity basketball team's season.

Though the first of the season didn't go too well, the team improved enough during the last half to clinch a playoff berth with Jackson. As a result of this, the Quakers wound up the season second in the red division and fourth in P.I.L.

This season, with fifteen wins and nine losses, had the best varsity record since 1962 and ended with a good outlook for next year.

Ric Long, a leading scorer and rebounder was the most outstanding player according to Coach Winters. Others were Bob Shields, another scoremaker, and Paul Paulich, a leading rebounder.

Team Loses All But Morale

"It's hard to keep team morale high in a losing season, but these boys gave 110% effort all year long. Vast improvement in each team member was evident," stated Coach Hashberger.

This season, with a record of four wins and 18 losses for the JV team, ended with a good outlook for next season.

Mike Santangelo, leading scorer and playmaker, and Dave Burnell, leading scorer were the outstanding players of the season. Both also made 62% of their free throws.

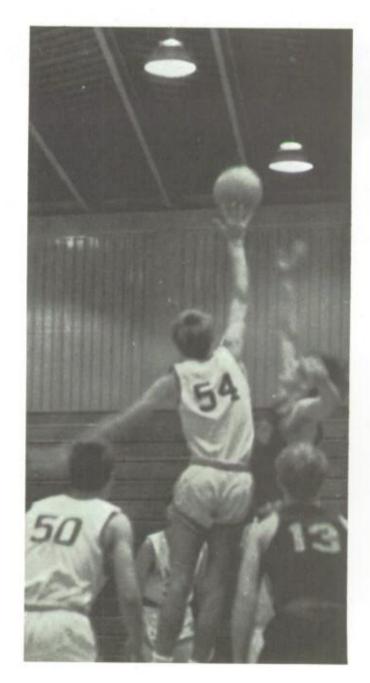

(First row): Randy Mealey, Jim Brasesco, Rob Elmore, John Jones, Darrell Lewis. Brent Tilton, Don Wiggins, Les Phillips, Burt Nichols. ## Frosh Use Depth To Advantage

"This was a fine group of freshmen basketball players, that are well on their way to being an outstanding team. One of the team's best assets was its depth; a second or third team player would go in and do a fine job." These are feelings Coach Willis had about his team.

The record of the season was six wins and five losses.

Mark Santangelo, John George, Lowell Gabner, and Steve Cote were the outstanding players in respect to scoring and rebounding.

Varsity Rally Promotes Spirit And Friendship

"The important thing about this year was the way we worked for friendship and spirit throughout the city."

This year's rally promoted spirit and friendship through banquets with the administration and rallies of other schools, and spirit week. Another idea put into practice was the selling of tickets in the main hall instead of the student store, so that more people would be aware of the coming games.

Varsity Trackmen Strive For High Goals

Mr. Jon Abraham started his first year of coaching trackmen with this statement, "We aim to win the Red Division championship and the dual-city meet." Coach Abraham felt that the team's strongest events were the hurdles, pole vault, weight events, and the mile, two mile, and quarter-mile runs. Gary Keller, Jon Jensen, Dave Austen, Loren Hamar, Randy Miller, Rick Langdon, Mark Knutson, Stan Kadolf, Gary Turner and Bill Green were named as strong contenders in their fields.

Mr. Harold Ellmers, JV coach, and Mr. Jack Knudsen, freshman coach, assisted Coach Abraham. Mr. Knudsen expained, "If there is a freshman and junior or senior on the same event, and the freshman does better, we elevate him to the varsity team. We'll take any guy who will perform to the best of his ability, and do it well."

Frosh Trackmen Demonstrate Skills

Varsity Baseball Swings Into Action

In regard to the baseball team, Varsity Coach Walter Buckiewicz had this to say; "We are an inexperienced team, and need much improvement. The turn-out for baseball was small this season and interest has been low." The coach went on to say that most of the key positions would be filled by seniors: Dan McElhaney, pitcher, outfielder, and first baseman, Don Lumas, Pitcher and outfielder, Mike Casciato, catcher; and Ric Long, infielder.

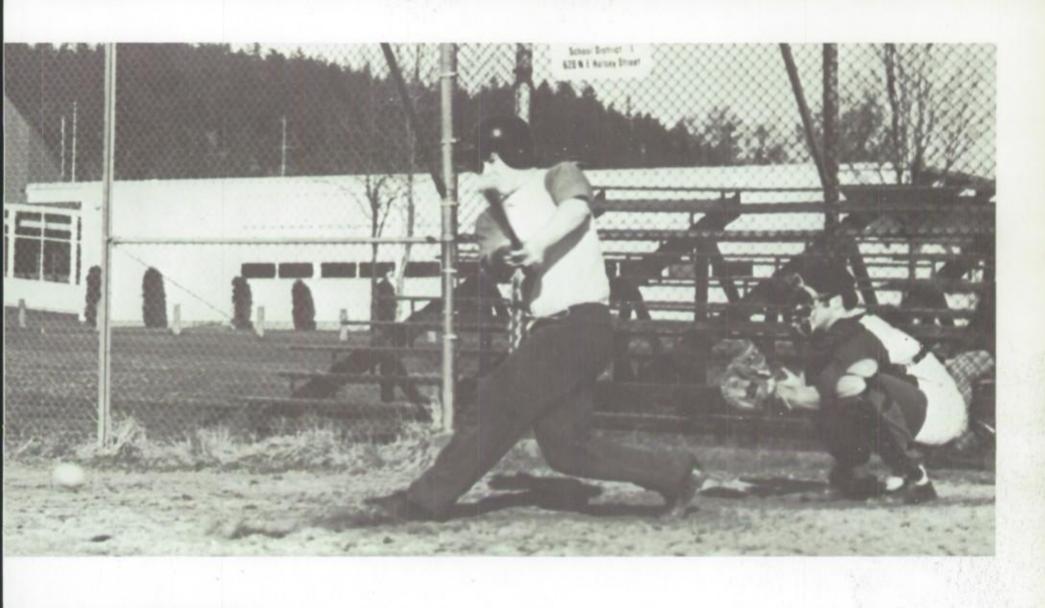

Added to the out-door season practice this year was, a great deal of pre-season practice in the gym. Many prospects took advantage of the plastic ball pitching machine in order to improve their hitting.

Tennis Team

Serves Its

Purpose

Because this year's team was a young one with three freshmen, two sophomores, and two juniors, for the seven starting players, it was mainly a building season. Coach Richard Mabry felt that next years' prospects were good when skills will be improved.

Besides making an excellent athletic showing, the team donated its services to Franklin by painting the tennis courts in March. The painting helps the players orient themselves on the court in addition to beautifying our school.

The practice obtained this year and experience from practice matches will undoubtedly combine to bring home honors next year.

Almanac Staff Chooses Youth For '69 Theme

Year after year a small group of students combine their efforts to compile what is traditionally called the Franklin ALMANAC. For more than 50 years the goal of each year's staff has been to produce a book that surpasses any preceding it.

The pages have captured some of the most outstanding moments in student life, and combined them with the theme of Youth. This theme has never before been used in a Franklin ALMANAC, yet what better theme could be used to express what this yearbook is all about?

It has been the ALMANAC staff's ultimate goal to embody the essay of Youth at Franklin and present it to the students.

The staff hopes this ALMANAC is an accurate account of the 68-69 school year, and will be a cherished remembrance for many years to come.

Art Staff Visits Portland Center

The Franklin Art staff, under the direction of Mr. Jerry Bosco, provides the student with the feeling that he belongs to an advertising firm. Each staff artist exercises complete freedom and carries a permanent hall pass. He is allowed to use any art media to carry out orders given to him, and all materials are at his disposal.

This year, each of the 18 students was picked for originality, responsibility and skill in sign lettering and poster painting. The prerequisites for the Art staff are recommendations from general and commercial art class teachers.

The staff produces hall banners, posters, fliers, silk screened posters, and programs, advertising the school's activities in sports, drama, and academics.

Custodians Of Books Keep Busy

The Bookroom staff, under the direction of Mrs. Janet Greenfield, is composed of juniors and seniors who enjoy serving as clerical assistants.

The first year assistants participate during their study halls. A credit is given during the second year for service on the staff.

The staff takes charge of the distribution of 14,400 textbooks during the year and helps to keep the Bookroom organized and efficient. One of the tasks undertaken by the Bookroom staff is the filing of the student textbook cards which are kept as a record of the number of books each student uses during the year.

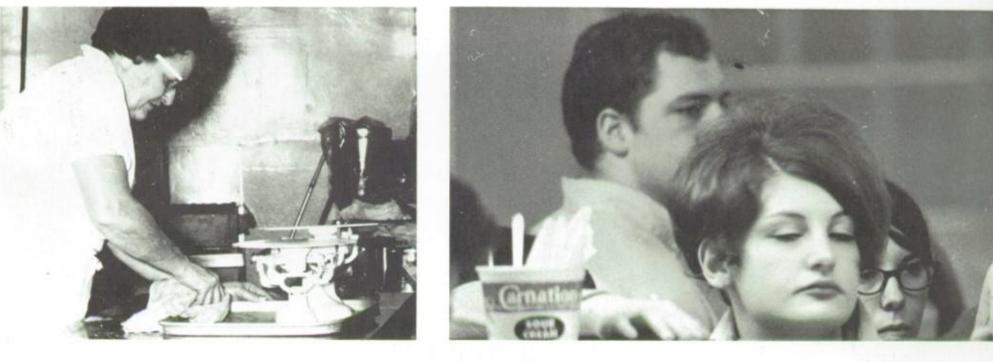

Bookroom work experience, although not directly connected to a particular field, does give valuable experience. It prepares the student for future work in offices, libraries, and general business.

Efficiency Of Cafeteria Depends On Teamwork

ach day, fulfilling the responsibilities of the Cafeteria staff. The adult staff, readed by Mrs. Helen Gottsch, is contantly busy preparing meals and keeping the huge kitchen and facilities clean and in order. The responsibility of erving the students good, inexpensive food rests upon the members of the staff.

The students, also under the direction of Mrs. Gottsch, assist the adult staff n making change and serving food during both lunch periods.

Here, as anywhere, "teamwork" proves nost important in the smooth function of the cafeteria system.

Only through cooperation among the cafeteria workers could the thousands of lunches and complete meals be served during the school year.

Library Staff Finds Accuracy Most Important

The new schedule at Franklin this year has created new difficulties to be overcome by everyone. The Library staff is no exception. They have been busy all year with their regular clerical duties as well as trying to help the Librarians meet new demands made by the new schedule and increased numbers of students.

Students from sophomore through senior grade levels may apply for library work. They are then interviewed by Mrs. Eleanor Norlin, head librarian. She requires that anyone who applies must have good attendance and citizenship records.

The duties of the Library staff are varied, and Mrs. Norlin feels that "accuracy" is most important in whatever the staff does: shelving and checking out books, keeping magazines in order, and arranging filing cards.

New Schedule Increases Post Efficiency

Upon completion of a beginning journalism course, an interested student may serve as a member of the POST staff.

POST staff membership, besides being an interesting, rewarding experience, is a good background for college journalism courses, and is helpful in learning to meet deadlines.

The new eight period schedule this year has made it easier for the POST staff to plan interviews and to secure better coverage of school events.

The purpose and major goal of the staff is to give accurate and complete coverage of events at Franklin, and to please the student body by printing an interesting, versatile paper.

Student Store Manages Finances

The student store, managed by girls under the supervision of Mrs. Psyche Miller, handles all Franklin student body financial transactions.

These girls have many duties. One is that of taking care of the accounts of activities and classes. Others include selling game tickets before and during the game, registering all students, keeping track of the locks and lockers, and taking care of club purchases.

In addition, the student store carries general school supplies and supplementary paper-back books, and workbooks for other business and science courses.

The course provides good experience and serves an excellent reference for jobs.

Major, Majorettes Inspire Instrumentalists,

Delight Spectators

Franklin drum major Cliff Lewis, and najorettes Sue Bennett and Wende Brown, added flair to the pep band ctivities this year.

As second in command, the drum major was responsible for leading the band it games and in parades, and for conducting the pep band. The majorettes provided championship quality half-ime entertainment, and performed in ront of the band during parades.

They took part in the Fine Arts Festiral in May and the Rose Festival Parade in June. Sue and Wende also participated in Oregon's Twirling Festiral on March 18.

They kept in shape for their various activities by practicing twice a week luring the game seasons.

Franklin Band

This year, as always, the "pep" music for the football and basketball games was supplied by the members of the Franklin High School Band.

The band, advised and directed by Mr. George Pancheau, is composed of students with musical ability. The class, graded mainly on attendance at different activities, plays an important role in carrying on Franklin traditions.

Daily practice and private sessions resulted in the band's fine performance in the Fairy Tale and Rose Festival parades. The band also competed in the Fine Arts Festival.

According to a band member, the most important object was to represent Franklin well in all outside activities.

Orchestra

Every year, 40 musically inclined students meet second period under the supervision of Mr. George Pancheau. This group comprises the Franklin High School Orchestra.

The orchestra represents Franklin in the annual All City Orchestra Festiva in late February and in the Fine Art Festival in May.

Other activities this year included par ticipation in the traditional Christmas program and providing the original and unsimplified Broadway music for Annie Get Your Gun.

Harmonettes And Intonations

The Harmonettes are an upcoming ensemble of sophomore girls directed by Mr. John Brewer. These girls who were chosen for the ensemble after auditioning last spring, practiced each Wednesday and Friday during the year. Among their activities this year, they sang for the Veterans' Hospital, the Atkinson PTA and the Franklin PTA. The Harmonettes are looking forward to more public appearances in the next two years for Franklin.

The junior girls' contribution to the Franklin High School music department is made by their ensemble called the Intonations. This year completes two active years at Franklin for this group. They participated in school programs and assemblies as well as for the Veterans' Hospital, a lodge club, the Father-Daughter Banquet held in December, and a Dads' Club meeting.

Madrigals And Starlighters

The Madrigals, the senior boys' and girls' ensemble, adds to the outstanding quality of the Franklin High School music department. These students, under the direction of Mr. John Peery, performed on many occasions outside of school this year. Among their appearances they entertained patients at Barnes and Veterans' Hospitals, sang for service clubs and lodges, and PTA meetings. As most of the group already had adequate credits for graduation, participation in this ensemble was a voluntary service.

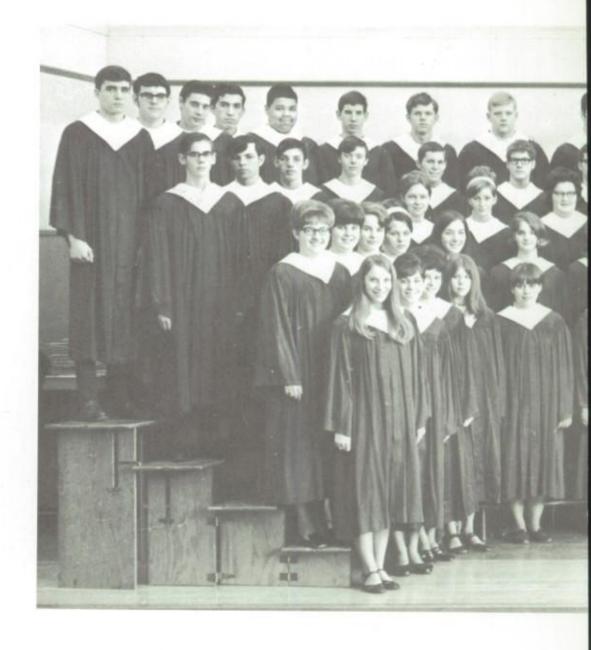

The Starlighters are a group of ten senior girls under the direction of Mr. John Brewer. They, too, have made several out of school appearances during the year. They sang for lodges, the Benson Tech Show, and on KOIN TV. They are especially proud to be the first school ensemble to have sung with the Oregon Symphony.

A Choir Girls' Choir

Two musical groups that express the theme of youth at Franklin are A Choir and Girls' Choir. Their concentrated practice is rewarded by the fine quality of music they produce each year in the programs at Franklin.

A Choir, under the direction of Mr. John Peery, participated in "Annie Get Your Gun," the Christmas program, and the Spring Festival. In addition, they caroled several places throughout the city during Christmas, and made their television debut in December.

Girls' Choir, under the direction of Mr. John Brewer, entertained patients at the Veterans' Hospital, and participated in the annual Christmas program, the Spring Festival, and the May Fete and Rose Festival assemblies. This year they performed in a special Girls' Choir assembly.

Lettermen

Franklin Lettermen's Club is made up of students who have commendable athletic ability. Any person who obtains a varsity letter may join the Letterman's Club.

The Lettermen are devoted to the promotion of spirit among the students, and to service in general to the school. They initiated several fund-raising activities this year. Among these were a ball-point pen sale, the sponsorship of the Northwest Wrestling Coaches' Clinic, and the refreshment stands at the games. With the funds they raised, they presented the rally with raincoats and bought new duffle bags for the Franklin Athletic department. Their spring activities included a swim party, a beach trip, and a steak feed.

Advised by Mr. Jack Burri, the Lettermen supervise the parking at Franklin activities and assume the responsibilities of the fire drills.

The National Forensic League is an honorary organization whose purpose is to promote public speaking by awarding deserving candidates membership in a national organization.

To become a member, the student must earn 25 points of credit in forensic work, rank in the upper two thirds of his class scholastically, and be elected into membership by the club.

Although Franklin has been a member of the NFL since 1965, this is the first year it has held a charter.

Under the direction of Mr. Gary Clark, Franklin speakers attended tournaments, the student congress and the NFL district meet. Their accomplishments have been revealed through the numerous trophies, ribbons, and certificates they have acquired.

DE

Future businessmen of Franklin—these are the members of Franklin's chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America.

Members of the club are students in the D.E. class. This class, designed to prepare students for a successful part in the business world, covers every phase of merchandising. Students engage in a deep study of wholesale and retail selling, and methods of salesmanship, advertising and display.

This year the club sponsored an aftergame dance, a candy sale, and was largely responsible for the student center plans.

Some members were active in state activities. Randy Oxford was president of the state chapter, and other members took part in the state conference which was held in April at the Hilton Hotel.

Sigma Phi Alpha

Sigma Phi Alpha is a club of purpose and participation. The club was formed as a music honorary. The main objectives are to promote a greater understanding of music and a better social understanding.

Membership in Sigma Phi Alpha consists of sophomore, junior and senior members of Band, Orchestra, A Choir, and the ensembles.

The club advisor, Mr. George Pancheau, states that the club was unusually active this year. Their activities included an officer election banquet, a new membership installation, a Halloween party, an Alumni Christmas caroling party, a mountain trip, a reception honoring music teachers, the Fine Arts Festival party, a senior banquet, and a beach trip. In addition, the club attends one musical event each month during the year.

Thespians

Students talented in dramatics have the opportunity of joining the Thespians Club. The purpose of Thespians is to promote interest in the field of dramatic arts.

The requirement for membership is ten "Thespian points," earned by participating in events connected with the dramatics department, such as behindthe-stage work in productions.

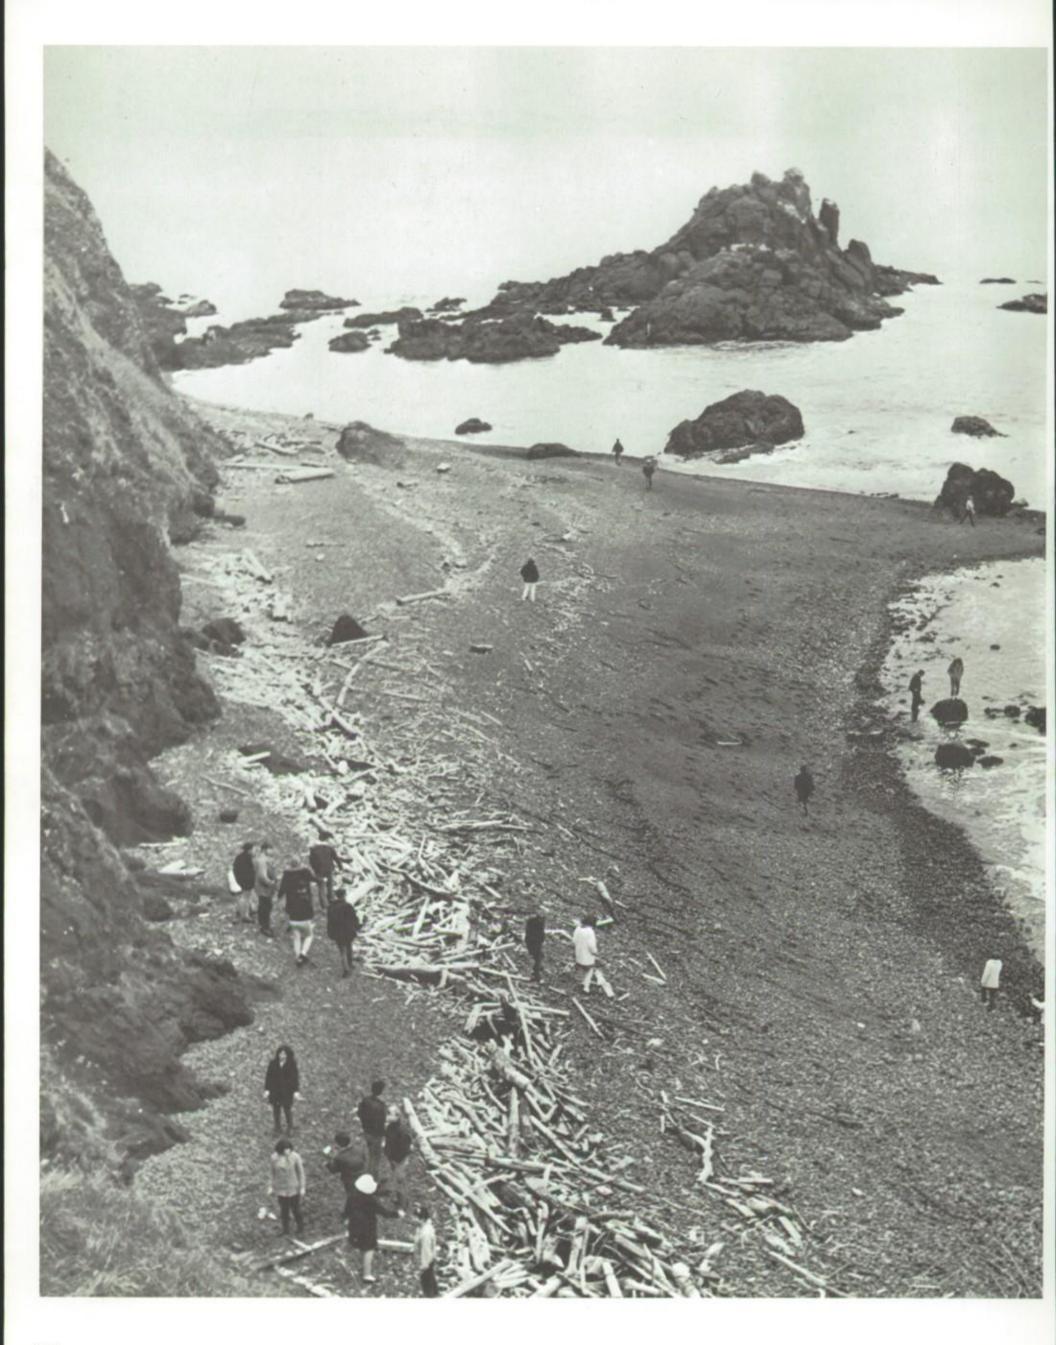

Thespians' activities this year included fund-raising projects and dramatic activities. The members presented one-act plays for the students at Franklin, a children's theater, and took part in the state Thespians' contest in April.

Officers were installed during the year at banquets to honor the newly elected cabinets.

Quakers Again Triumph Over Grant in S. B. Contest

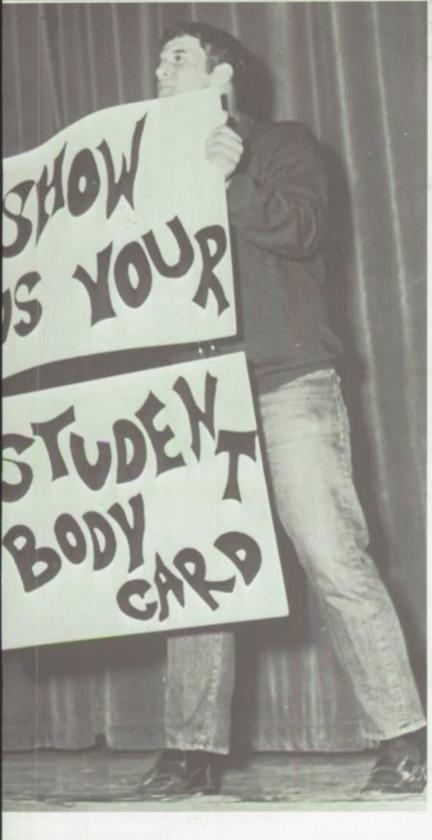

This year is the second consecutive year that Franklin has beaten Grant in a student body card sale contest. Although percentages for both schools were very close, Franklin won by about one percent.

As a result of the Quaker victory, Grant's student body president and vice president, Dave Edwards and Robin Suwol, were obligated to come to Franklin and participate in a special assembly. Both had to paint garbage cans, and became targets for cherries, chocolate syrup, flour and, to top it all off, a pie in the face.

Robust Spirit Captures Quakers

Spirit at Franklin was put into action in activities sponsored by the student body, Dad's Club, and the Football Rally. Spirit assemblies put on by the rally gave everyone the excitement of a a real game. Men of the Dad's Club gave students a chance to get two pizzas and a Pepsi for only 50c before riding the spirit bus to the only away football game we had this year, at Roosevelt. Homecoming, an annual activity at Franklin, took place on September 27. Judy Oliverio, senior, reigned as queen with her court, consisting of junior, Sharon Gallucci, sophomore, Carla Tweten, and freshman Judy Speciale.

Packwood— Morse Debate

The elections of 1968 brought prominent political figures to Franklin. Two men, candidates for the position of senator, appeared in special assemblies. Students who attended included those who had study halls, social studies, or English classes at the times of the assemblies. Quakers were interested in the campaigns, so attentive audiences were large.

Robert Packwood, Oregon's Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, was introduced by Roy Sampsel, a former Franklin student body president. Mr. Packwood expressed the qualities that he felt were necessary for leadership. A panel then confronted him with questions from students.

Following Mr. Packwood's appearance, his Democratic opponent, Wayne Morse, spoke to assembled students in the packed auditorium. This assembly was handled in the same manner as the preceding one.

Roy Sampsel, former Franklin student body president, introduces Robert Packwood.

Alberto Mansilla Discovers America

Alberto Mansilla, Franklin's exchange student, saw snow for the first time in his life while living in Portland. He says "the little white things are beautiful." Alberto came from Buenos Aires, Argentina. He spent his visit living with the Frie family.

Americans have been friendly and kind to him, he asserted. He was pleased to attend Franklin. Dress is much more casual in this country, for students wear suits to school in Argentina.

Commenting on American life, Alberto said: "American food is too rich—you eat too much and become a little monster." He is certain that Americans think too much about money. Music and soccer have been important to Alberto. Estudiantes de la Plata, the champion soccer team of the world, is from his home town. Under the exchange student regulations, Alberto must return to his country for two years; after that he will be free to live wherever he chooses.

Quakers Find "There's No Business Like Show Business"

Annie Get Your Gun, chosen as Franklin's musical, was presented November 22, 23, and 24 by the music and drama departments. On Thursday night, November 22, student body cards admitted Quakers to the dress rehearsal free of charge. Friday and Saturday nights the shop played to a full house of Franklin patrons and parents.

Annie Oakley and Frank Butler, the main characters in Annie Get Your Gun, were portrayed by Beth Graham and David Buell. The cast consisted of over fifty students, with Franklin's entire orchestra accompanying such favorites as "Doin' What Comes Naturally" and "The Girl That I Marry."

The story is about Annie Oakley, who wins fame for her marksmanship. In love with Frank Butler, a sharpshooting star, she lets him win a contest in the end so that he will marry her.

Girls' B-Ball Scores Lots of Laughs

One of the most hilarious basketball games Franklin has ever seen took place this year between the senior and junior girls on December 19 in the Franklin gym. After a few practices, and because of some tactfully given advice about improvements from the two coaches, Mike Casicato for the seniors and Dan Mc-Elhaney for the juniors, the game had some "pretty" sharp players. The score of the game gave the lead to both teams many times, with the juniors finally winning 37 to 35. The fifty dollars raised in ticket sales was donated to the band for their uniform fund.

Basketball Rally Assembly Held to Promote Spirit

The members of the Franklin basketball team were presented to the student body in a double rally assembly on February 25.

During the spirit-promoting assembly, coach James Winters described the members of the team, their standing in league competition, and their chances for placing in the city playoffs. He urged the student body to come and support the team at the remaining games.

After Coach Winters finished speaking, the rally took over and held a competition yell between the boys and girls. (The boys won.)

After-Game Dances Re-instated

Once again Quakers had the privilege of attending after game dances. Last year few dances were allowed, but since the levy passed, schools have reinstated the teen rituals.

Various combos, sponsored by fundraising organizations, played for the enjoyment of all who attended. Dances were held in the gym, and decorated by the group sponsoring the dance.

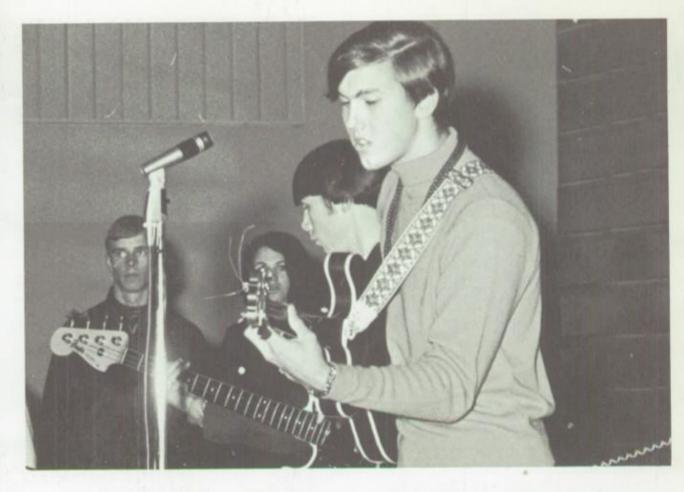

The Boogaloo, the horse, the skate and other wild contortions done at the after game dances allowed the "swinging" Quakers to express themselves.

Let It Snow!

Cold, wet spills and snowball fights were the order of the day—the snow had come.

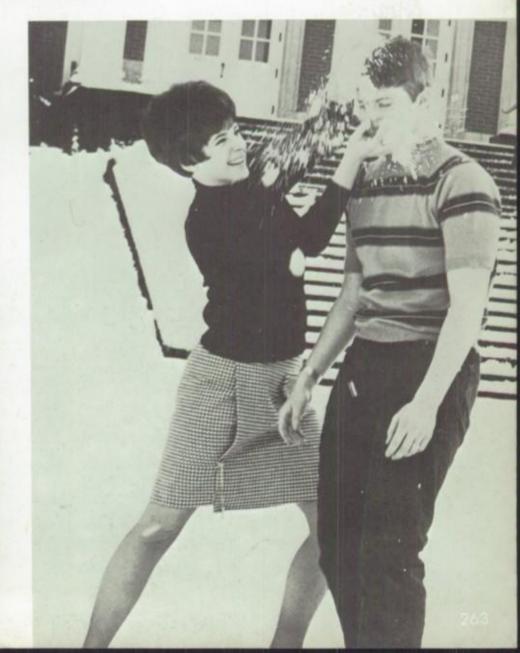

Before Christmas vacation, while flakes fluttered quietly down, hopes were high that there would be early dismissal, for a few extra days away from school. However, the hoping was in vain, and administration restricted snow ball fights to the football bowl in order to prevent broken windows.

During vacation, a storm began in earnest. Within a few hours the city was thickly covered by drifts of snow protected by a hard crust, the product of a silver thaw.

Since "it couldn't happen in Portland," the city was prepared for winter with one solitary snow plow. The clearing of streets was slow: cars crawled single file on wide streets, bus transportation didn't exist, towing service was unreliable, and taxis were over-worked.

With these conditions prevailing, the wishes for a longer vacation were granted. School began two days later than planned!

Music Captures Christmas Spirit

This year the program was presented to the students on December 19 in a double assembly. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Pancho, and the vocal groups, under Mr. Brewer and Mr. Perry, did a series of arrangements, with Mr. Johns narrating between numbers.

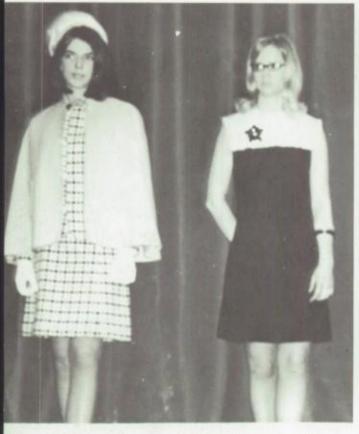

The theme was "Music From Many Lands," and several songs were introduced which departed from tradition and gave a better all-around view of Christmas.

Fashions Fascinate Franklin Girls

The educational division of the Simplicity Pattern Company sent a representative to stage the annual show for Franklin girls. The purpose of the show was to inform the girls of fashion trends and to stimulate their interest in sewing.

Coordinated by Mrs. Seawright and company representative, Judy Buss, the program included the modeling of different styles by girls involved in the home economics department.

Sewing tips were a part of the presentation.

Variety Dresses Campus Life

"The responsibility for the dress and grooming of a student rests primarily with the student and his or her parents or guardians."

This is how the new dress policy, adopted by the Portland School Board on December 9, begins. The new code allows students to use their own individual tastes as to appropriate dress for school, as long as classroom procedure is not disrupted and the health and safety of others is not jeopardized.

Though it met with some opposition at first, the lenient code was well accepted by the majority of high school students. Since they were permitted to wear almost anything they pleased, there was a greater variety to spice campus life. The lack of restriction allowed a better expression of moods and personality through appearance.

From shoulder length page-boys and beards on the fellows to cascading locks ironed free of wave on girls, hair styles followed the demands of the new baute couture.

New Ideas Put Into Effect

The fall term began early for the executive cabinet. During the summer, Student Body President Cathie Loprinzi and three members of her cabinet attended the Student Council Workshop at the University of Oregon. Here, through discussion with representatives from other schools, the cabinet picked up new ideas, including Vice President Nick Gattuccio's new method of selecting Student Council Representatives on the basis of volunteers for service.

With this background in mind, the cabinet went on to plan the Football Jamboree, the Homecoming ceremony, the Junior and Senior basketball game, the Candyland Dance, and the assembly to send Sue Straight to Washington D.C. Although all of these activities were successful, the cabinet was happiest with the Jamboree which had a "great" turnout in spite of bad weather.

Cabinet Urges Participation

"We, as a representative body, need full student participation in order to get administrative approval. That's one of the reasons for the student center. If the students can see some tangible reward for their enthusiasm, maybe they'll get more excited about other things." These are comments made by Bob Marshall during his spring term as student body president.

Activities during the term included the Student Center candy sale, Safety Week, and the planning of the May Fete ceremonies.

U of O Workshop Inspires Reforms

With ideas from the University of Oregon workshop, Student Council President Nick Gattuccio began revolutionary improvements this year.

The most important change was in the procedure for electing representatives. Candidates first volunteered to serve, and gave brief speeches explaining the way they could help Student Council achieve its goals. Reps were chosen from these students, and election of disinterested students was thus avoided.

A great deal of effort went into improving student council this year.

Spring term Student Council President, Mark Knutson, felt that the most important committees were the faculty relations committee, which promotes a better understanding between students and faculty, and the good neighbor committee, which helps community relations.

President Terrie Smith, Vice President Lynn Jewel, Secretary Debbie Dodd, Treasurer Chris Alm, and Publicity Chairman Patty Smith.

A. G. S. Tries Big-Little Sister Program

A.G.S. began two innovations this year. The most important was a "Big and Little Sister" program, which was initiated for the purpose of acquainting the freshmen with the upper classmen. Activities included a Match-up Assembly, Sis-o-gram distribution, and the Big and Little Sister Tea.

Also new to Franklin girls is the practice of giving each girl of the month a charm bracelet to keep.

The annual Father and Daughter Banquet with the theme of "Christmas with Papa" concluded a comparatively successful term.

AGS Sponsors Traditional Week

Twirp week was the main activity of the A.G.S. Spring term again this year. Other activities sponsored by the girls were the fashion show presented by the Hi-Board, and Benjamin Franklin Day. President Chris and her cabinet had several new ideas. One of them was to have A.G.S. outfits for the cabinet members and year representatives.

A. F. M. Tries To Revive Interest

A.F.M. suffered its annual lack of interest again this year. Fall term president, Dave McFarlane said that he found his office challenging because of the lack of cooperation and constant criticism, but that it was a challenge that he could not meet.

During the first few weeks the cabinet's efforts were applied to getting representatives elected in registration rooms, laying out the schedule for "Man of the Month" elections, and the initial planning of "A.F.M. Week."

The first successful A.F.M. activity was an assembly for the boys. It featured R. C. Owens, a professional football player, who presented a film and a lecture on how to "try harder."

"A.F.M. Week," the big event on the schedule, did not go according to plan. Some new ideas were introduced, but were found ineffective. The highlight of the week was the assembly featuring "The Echoes".

"Tartuffe" Stars PSC Drama Student With Quakers

On February 20, 21, and 22, Franklin's drama department presented Moliere's "Tartuffe."

The story concerns a man, Orgon, who trusts his seemingly pious friend, Tartuffe, implicitly. No one, not even his wife and son, can convince him that Tartuffe, who is a criminal, is anything short of perfect.

This controversial play, a satire on religious hypocrisy, has offended many people who thought it was a satire on religion. For this reason it was banned when first written.

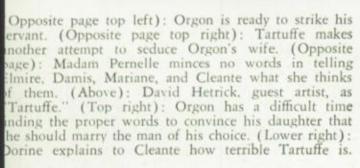

Directed by Mr. Phillip Bonfiglio, "Tartuffe" differed from other Franklin plays in that the leading role was played by a guest. Mr. David Hetrick a theater major at Portland State University portrayed the complex personality of Tartuffe.

P. I. L. Bouts Visitors

"People move much faster here; they don't relax." "The girls aren't as mature here as they are at home." These are some of the comments made by the New Zealand All Star Wrestlers who visited Franklin on February 19.

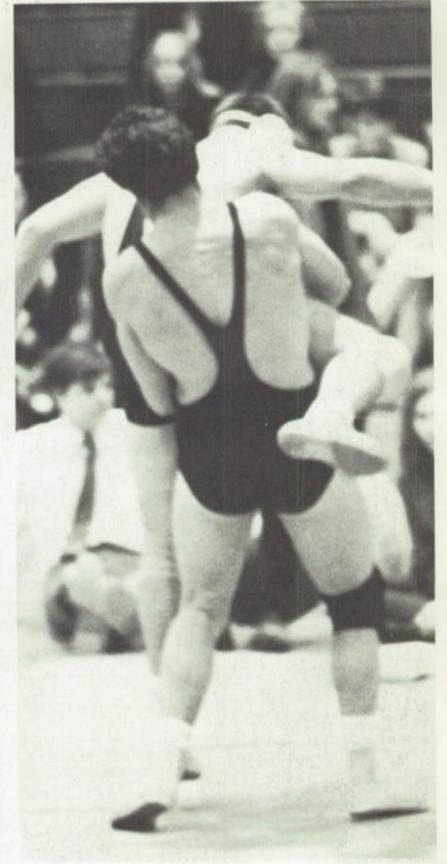

The match was good, exciting, and fun for all involved, but as Mr. Burri pointed out, "It isn't the wrestling that's important; it's the cultural exchange."

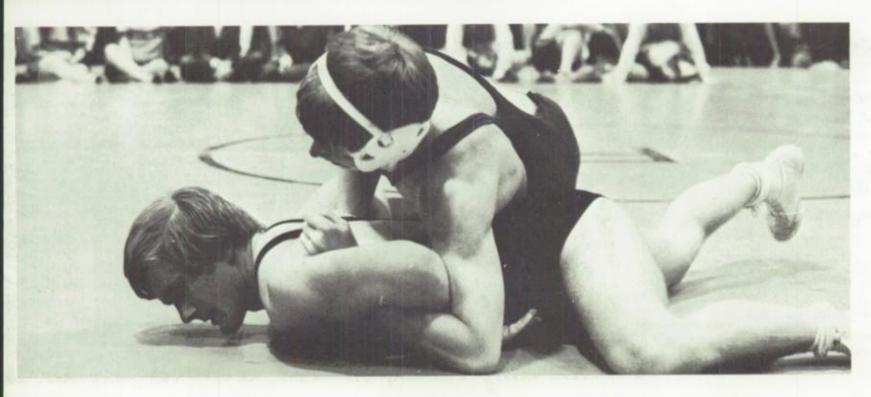

Proceeds from the match were put into the Cultural Exchange Fund that sends Portland high school students to other parts of the world in competition of all kinds.

Faculty Overwhelms Students With Bowling Ability

This year, for the first time, the faculty dared to challenge the Franklin student body to a bowling match.

Students and faculty met for action on February 23 at the Eastside bowling alley. After deciding on the rules (which included "no cheating"), the students formed six teams of six players each and the teachers fell into six teams with five players each. Then the battle was on.

Within three hours the results were in. The score was 13 to 11 in favor of the faculty. Happy over their victory, faculty members were ready to have it out again in a rematch, but the students figured they'd have better luck sticking to more active sports.

Forecasting Keeps Students And Counselors Busy

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors were once again faced with the decisions of what subjects to take next year. The old gripes, "but it's so early" and "I don't know what I want to take next year" were not uncommon in Franklin halls.

Thirteen new courses were offered for 1969-70. Painting with oils and acrylics (Art Department); Hospital Workers, for seniors interested in hospital careers; American history at the sophomore level, making three one-semester courses available to seniors who may choose two of them rather than American Problems; a general social studies, open to sophomores only and an Area Studies social studies class for seniors.

Busy Faculty Enjoys Extra Curricular Activities

Breakfasts, buffets, and luncheons added variety to faculty social schedules. The first activity was an outdoor buffet, scheduled just before the first home game in an effort to encourage the attendance of faculty families. To help new teachers become acquainted with the rest of the staff, the counselors sponsored a get-together after school. The faculty gave a breakfast for the National Honor Society, so that they might get to know the honor students better. An annual function at the close of the year is a farewell luncheon at a restaurant honoring the retiring teachers and those leaving Franklin for other assignments.

Choir, Orchestra Avows Citizenship Dedication

Franklin students, like most young people, are seldom aware of how fortunate they are to live in the United States They have the red, white, and blue flag flying above them symbolizing the citizen's unalienable rights. Most students are natural-born citizens who never think of what it would be like, not belonging in this nation.

This year, Franklin's orchestra and choir had the opportunity to perform at a program given for immigrants who recently received their citizenship to the United States, in Oregon. People from all over the globefrom Africa to Pakistan—were there to take part in the ceremonies.

Governor Tom McCall and mayor Terry Schrunk headed the list of dignitaries who greeted the new Americans at a reception following the ceremonies.

Hi-Board Presents The Latest In Fashion

This year a new Hi-Board was formed at J. C. Penney's to give Franklin a total of six representatives to the various stores.

The girls are given an outfit from the store to advertise the sponsor's fashions. The purpose of the girls is to provide a fashion link between the stores and the girls at school.

The representatives all model at a fashion show held annually at school. This year rather than having the show during school time, it was decided to have it the evening of March 13, for mothers as well as the Franklin girls.
